PREACHING THAT EMPOWERS GOD'S PEOPLE

EXPOSITORY PREACHING IN THE 21ST CENTURY

By
Jeremy W. Odom, D.Div.

Distinguished author Jeremy Odom explains the premise for writing this book:

By implementing the fine art of expository preaching in the preacher's repertoire, we undertake the commitment of transforming lives of men into empowered people of God. This transformation is only accomplished through the proper exegesis of God's word.

Preaching that Empowers God's People consists of valuable information for the minister of the 21st century to fully understand the necessity of Bible Preaching otherwise referred to Expository Preaching.

In Preaching that Empowers God's People, the author defines and defends the expository sermon.

- Expository preaching is a sermon from a man, who above else, wants to glorify His Lord by studying a passage to find out what it means to God...
- The unique contribution of Bible Exposition is its substantial enhancement of the listener's comprehension of Scripture's intent.

TESTIMONIALS

A worthwhile read for anyone in the pastoral ministry – even those who have been preachers for many years. Dr. Doug Erlandson, Adjunct Instructor of Philosophy at Southeast Community College

Brief forays are made into definitions, types of expository sermons, and Dr. Odom touches upon homiletics as well. Dr. Jeff Klick, Senior Pastor of Hope Family Fellowship
